AMERICAN BAPTIST
RESOLUTION ON D.C. STATEHOOD

As Christians we believe that all persons are God's children, created in God's image (Genesis 1:27) and loved by God (I John 2:1, 4:14), and therefore all persons should be treated as of equal worth and value. We also believe that every person has a right to dignity, to citizenship and to participation in the political processes of his or her nation. We believe that as Christians we bear responsibility for justice toward all persons (Philippians 2:4).

Washington, D.C., the capital of the United States, has a population of over 500,000 persons but its residents have no voting representation in Congress. These residents pay the same federal income taxes and social insurance taxes as citizens of the fifty states, and at a per capita rate higher than forty-nine states, but they have no representation in determining how these tax dollars will be spent. The residents of Washington, D.C. have fought and died in all of our nation's wars, and during the Vietnam War had a per capita death rate higher than forty-seven states, but they have no legislators with an opportunity to vote on whether the U.S. enters a war.

Citizens residing in Washington, D.C. are taxed without representation and are shut out of our nation's decision making. They have a delegate in the House of Representatives with voice but no vote. They cannot rectify this situation themselves. It is up to Congress to give the District of Columbia a full voice in the affairs of our nation.

Statehood would assure these disenfranchised residents of voting representation in Congress. In 1980, the voters of Washington, D.C. approved an initiative to petition Congress for statehood, and in 1982 they approved a draft state constitution. There is no federal constitutional prohibition against statehood for Washington, D.C. Statehood can become a reality if the House and Senate pass the legislation and the President signs it.

Therefore, the General Board of American Baptist Churches, USA expresses its support for legislation that grants statehood to the District of Columbia and urges that it be enacted.
